DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-3, 6-7, 12-21, 25-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Morikita (US. Pat. No. 6,003,339).

Morikita discloses nearly all that is recited in the claims (Note: "cylinders 12, 13" correspond to the claimed "holding member"; "slits 52,53" correspond to the claimed "clearance". See, in particular, the embodiments represented by figs. 17-20, which show supply ports/paths which supply nitrogen gas, under vacuum, to the slits 52,53). The language of claim 1, and other independent claims, which recites "when a pressure transfer medium is supplied to the clearance between the pair of molding die members and the holding member...." relates to the "function" of the claimed molding die, as opposed to the structure". Further, the language of claims 17-19, recite language reciting the pressure transfer medium being supplied under specific pressure and temperature ranges. Applicant is reminded that claims directed to apparatus must be distinguished from the prior art in terms of structure rather than function. (Emphasis added) In re Danly, 120 USPQ 528, 531 (CCPA 1959). "Apparatus claims cover what a device is, not what a device does." Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Bausch & Lomb Inc., 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (fed. Cir. 1990). See MPEP 2114. Further, where the claimed and prior art product/apparatus is identical or substantially identical in structure or composition, a prima facie case of either anticipation has been established. In re Best, 562 F.2d 1252, 1255, 195 USPQ 430, 433 (CCPA 1977). In other words, when the structure recited in the reference is substantially identical to that of the claims, the claimed properties or functions are presumed to be inherent.) In the alternative, the apparatus of Morikita is obviously capable of being supplied with a pressure-transfer medium, under the claimed pressure and temperature parameters, that enables the molding die members to be slid and/or held such that they do not contact the holding member due to the clearance between the dies and the holding member being supplied with a compressed gas to accomplish same.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1731

5. Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Morikita (US. Pat. No. 6,003,339) in view of JP 2-175115.

While Morikita may not specifically state that the gas delivered in its apparatus is thru a supply port which is a porous member, JP 2-175115 discloses a similar molding device, having a pair of molding dies positioned between a holding member, said molding device having compressed air delivered via a porous member (see figs and English abstract). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the device of Morikita to include a porous member thru which to deliver inert gas since such is know in the molding of ceramics – as disclosed in the JP 2-175115 reference.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 8-10, and 22-24 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to the pending claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

8. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 1731

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
